

Check Your Numbers For Carnival Prizes

Didsbury merchants' fourth shopping carnival was concluded on Saturday night, November 17, after a week of special bargains at most business places in town, and sales generally were good throughout the entire week.

Didsbury Winners At Toronto Royal Fair

The Didsbury entrants in the Toronto Royal Winter Fair have all brought honor to our district and are to be congratulated on their success.

Delbert Fulkert, who attended the Fair for the first time, showed the Palomino, "Golden Spike," owned by Mr. Sam Henderson, and won the Grand Champion Class, took honors twice under saddle, and once under halter. Delbert broke and handled this horse alone under the watchful eye of his father, Mr. Walter Fulkert.

Nine members were present for the November meeting of the Zella W.I. held on Thursday, November 15, with Mrs. Joe Ness as hostess.

Mrs. H. Nelson read an article entitled "Keeping house in Korea." Mrs. John Hansen had chosen a poem entitled "No Occupation" as her bit of fun.

Tickets were distributed for the turkey which the Zella W.I. is raising in December.

Sawchuk Shows His Magic

Netminder TERRY SAWCHUK of the Detroit Red Wings, sets the pace in the NHL goalkeepers department with a terrific average of only one goal against him per game. The 27-year-old star also holds the shut-out spot with 2 in the 2 games he has played this season. In the photo above Sawchuk knocks away a labeled shot from the stick of Einar Lach in a recent game. Promoted Detroit rearward, seems amazed at the miracle Terry performed.

It is hoped that some definite arrangements can be made in the near future as to running the community rink at Westcott for the season.

Stook threshing is in full swing in this area and farmers are getting some feed stocked up. The grain isn't dry, but the feed is a necessity and the rush is on before the weather breaks again with another wintry blast.

Mrs. John Jacobson of Sundre has been doing chores for her son, Linden Jacobson and his wife, who are out hunting. Mrs. Jacobson has also been helping at the Otto Folkman home with the cooking for the threshers in her spare time while here.

The meeting was favoured with a visit from the Constituency Convener, Mrs. Cliff Gibbs, who gave a very inspiring address which was enjoyed by all present.

An auction sale was held and the sum of $4.00 was realized. Mrs. Pete Schumaker being the very able auctioneer.

Miss Margery Chandler spent Sunday at the home of her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Krebs entertained a number of friends at a turkey dinner on Monday, the occasion being Emil's birthday.

The November meeting of the Melvin W.I. was held on Wednesday, November 14, at the home of Mrs. Emil Krebs with an attendance of eight members and three visitors. Roll call was answered with, "A famous person I admire, and why," which fitted in with Mrs. Chandler's topic on citizenship.

Mrs. Chandler chose for her subject Donald Cameron, son of an Innisfail farmer, who studied art and had much to do in beginning the Banff School of Fine Arts. Mrs. C. Rhineland, who has been a student at Banff was also present, and gave a talk on pastel work, demonstrating her talk with books and pictures and actually doing a picture to the delight of all present.

Mrs. R. Shantz demonstrated a bit of time forger and Mrs. E. Krebs had the bit of fun which was won by Mrs. Chandler.

It was voted to send a donation of $10 to the Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital. Instead of the usual Christmas draw this year it was decided that each member would bring a gift parcel wrapped and labeled for the Woods' Christian Home.

At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

Most farmers are getting a bit of threshing done these fine days, though the grain is mostly tough. It's a big help to the feed problem to be able to get the stock into a field.

ON CIVIL DEFENCE

(By Mrs. H. Lynch-Staunton)

ARTICLE VII

The whole purpose of Civil Defence is to help you protect yourself and to make the best use of your own skill and ability to help others in an emergency.

Our own propaganda regarding the atomic bomb has made many people believe there is no possible defence against it. It is surely the most terrible and destructive weapon invented. But it has its limitations, and its effects can be mitigated.

In Japan, the atomic bomb was used against an unwarned and, for the larger part, untrained population. The people were caught before any evacuation had taken place and with only inadequate shelters.

Under similar circumstances, it is estimated that as many as 30,000 people might lose their lives in a typical North American city having a population density of 15 persons to the acre. However, adequate advance preparation and organization including well-planned evacuation, a warning system, provision of shelters, and disciplined Civil Defence Services—these would greatly reduce the number of casualties. Every living being in the area affected by an atomic bomb need not necessarily be destroyed.

Song By Mrs. Gillies Has Been Published

Mrs. Jean Gillies of the Elkton community has brought honour to this district by having her song, "When Alberta's Sun Shines On The Rockies," published in sheet music form.

The publishers are Empire Music Publishers, New Westminster, B.C., and the words and music were produced as a joint effort of Mrs. Gillies of Elkton and Mr. Rudy Hall, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan.

The current hit is now being featured in Vancouver by Jimmy Morris, and the song in sheet form is available by ordering from Law's Drug Store, Didsbury, or from your favorite music house.

Mrs. Gillies wrote the words to the song about a year ago, and it was accepted for publication this spring, and finally was made available to the public early in November.

The song has been taken to Hollywood and will be sung by Gene Autry and Bing Crosby on current fall programs.

Machinery Is Tool Of Production

(Royal Bank News Letter)

The four material factors most important in the economic well-being of a nation are invention, population, natural resources and economic organization. This article is about the machines we invent in order to mould natural resources into usable products for our people, and to distribute the commodities.

With a world population so large the economists tell us we must strain our resources to feed all the people, we are under increasing compulsion to expand productivity. We can do so only by using machinery.

For a dramatic contrast between the efficiency of human labour and that performed by machines directed by men, look at the Great Pyramid and Boulder Dam. The pyramid contains 2,300,000 stone blocks, each weighing 2½ tons. Dr. W.M. White, a consulting engineer of Milwaukee, has figured out that it took 100,000 men over a period of 30 years to build it. Boulder Dam has 3½ million cubic yards of concrete, requiring the handling of ten million cubic yards of material. A power line 220 miles long brought electricity which was applied through machines by 5,000 men. The pyramid was built by slaves under a taskmaster's lash in 30 years; the dam was built by machines under the direction of skilled workmen in five years.

What has brought about the change from a slave society to one in which every worker may be the master of manufactured power equal to that of hundreds of men? Imagine: the power to visualize what would result if this and that were put together; progressive skill in applying the forces of six basic

ONLY BARE ESSENTIALS ON LIVESTOCK CERTIFICATES

A standard registration certificate applicable to all breeds of livestock and acceptable to all breed associations with information reduced to the bare essentials was the main proposal suggested last weekend at a joint meeting of delegates of about 25 breeders' associations of the Department of Agriculture.

The new arrangement, if endorsed by the associations at their respective annual meetings, will result in a simpler and prompter livestock registration service on the part of the Canadian National Live Stock Records Office.

On the other hand, associations themselves will have a larger share of the responsibilities which have piled up with time and, for the last 45 years, have been assumed in most cases by the Canadian National Live Stock Records Office.

Specific proposals adopted at this Ottawa meeting and which again will have to be submitted to the breeders can be summarized as follows:

(1) The inclusion on registration certificates of the minimum of information required to establish identification and ancestry.

(2) The use of standard certificate of registration by all associations.

(3) The discontinuance of the principle of special deposits to the principle of machines; the lever, the wheel, the pulley, the wedge, the screw and the inclined plane. The wooden scoop of untutored races developed through the ordinary spade to one with pneumatic attachment, and finally to a huge shovel with steel teeth that can gobble up a cartload of earth at one mouthful.

credit of an association by the Canadian National Live Stock Records Office.

(4) The transfer from the Records Office of such duties and services as may be adequately conducted by association secretaries.

Additional services now given include collection of membership fees; preparation of membership list for the annual meetings; interpretation of inaccuracies in constitution and by-laws; settlement of disputes among members etc.

The adoption of the above proposals would necessitate adoption of amendments approved at the meeting stipulating that the Record Office should cease to act as a banker and lawyer for associations; that its responsibilities should be limited to the issuance of short pedigrees. Longer pedigrees would be provided by the association, the fee to be charged by them for such a service being in accordance with the amount of work involved in each case. No changes have been made to the article dealing with the conditions of withdrawal of an association from the affiliation.

Department and Records officials would continue to be at the disposal of associations and members for advice on any problem related to new responsibilities assumed by associations.

This is Canada's 25th nationwide Christmas Seal Sale to obtain funds for the prevention of tuberculosis. As early as 1908 individual Tuberculosis Associations in Canada conducted Christmas Seal Sales, but in 1927, this became the accepted method of obtaining funds for the prevention of tuberculosis.

ALUMINIUM HATS NEW STYLE

There is something pleasantly reliable and consistent about styles in top hats. This item of apparel does not change from season to season as women's clothes do, and while a "topper" may become vulnerable with age, it rarely goes out of style.

This characteristic not only applies to men's top hats but also to the top hats worn by progressive telephone and telegraph poles—a deduction based on a report from Norway which says that A.S. Norsk Aluminium expects to deliver 200,000 "top hats" for wooden telephone and telegraph poles in Norway and Finland by the end of 1951. The material used in the construction of this protective hat has changed from zinc to aluminium—but the style and design are much the same this year as last.—Aluminium News.

PILOTS LIE DOWN TO FLY THIS AIRCRAFT

A specially adapted Reid and Sigrist Desford trainer aircraft, flown by a pilot lying down full length in the fuselage, is being tested at the Royal Aircraft Establishment's Farnborough airfield.

Primary reason for testing the prone piloted aircraft is a medical one: theoretically the effects of centrifugal force on the pilot should be less severe in manoeuvres if his body lies along the axis of the aircraft. The prone position also reduces the size of the aircraft fuselage, cuts down its frontal area and makes possible a slimmer fuselage, reducing drag. The redesigned control system—stick, rudders, etc., will be closely watched during the trials, which will also reveal whether the prone position is specially fatiguing.

ONE IN TEN

A million Canadians now have jobs in manufacturing. Ten per cent of these are in the primary textile industry. (The latest Dominion Bureau figures are 1,080,000 in manufacturing and 104,000 of these in primary textiles.)

Besides leading all other Canadian industries in numbers employed in manufacturing, primary textiles also is away ahead in the size of its payroll. It is up among the leaders in providing jobs for women and in being well spread out through the smaller communities.

BEWARE OF THE PEDDLER

There has been an influx of peddlers into the country the past few months and many of them are now making the rounds of the towns and villages of Alberta. There is no law against peddlers working in the towns, but there is a moral law which some of them fail to heed—that of living up to their deals, especially where delivery is not made on the spot.

Many instances can be related where a salesman takes an order, collects a down payment or the full amount, and then fails to deliver the article. If it is delivered it may be of inferior quality.

Magazine subscription salesmen and sales girls have another method of fleecing the public of hard-earned cash. Many of them are honest, but some are not and even credentials shown are outdated or have been cancelled.

The only safeguard against being swindled by peddlers is to have nothing to do with them. Send them on their way unless you know them personally.

To protect the residents most towns have a by-law requiring all peddlers to take out a license before canvassing a community. Didsbury has such a by-law but it is difficult to enforce because the peddlers simply ignore it and are not reported by responsible citizens.

To help your town and to safeguard your own interests you should demand to see a salesman's credentials and his town license. If he fails to show them, send him on his way and report the incident immediately to the town constable or town secretary.

Peddlers offer a definite opposition to legitimate business firms in town. They don't employ local labor, pay no property taxes, don't support local organizations, churches, etc., but take the cream of the sales. Some local business men even support them, although they should know better.

So what can we do but send out a warning and hope that it will be some benefit to misguided citizens.

NEW PLANT'S VALUE

In choosing a location for a new plant, manufacturers have many factors to consider. To assist them in making a selection many Canadian municipalities offer the services of an industrial commissioner.

Each commissioner is, of course, primarily interested in drawing attention to the advantages offered by his own particular area and in persuading manufacturers that it's a good place to establish a new plant. That's his job. The degree of success he is able to achieve has a vital bearing on the prosperity of his town or municipality.

For any community, a new industry is a very important acquisition. Every town and city depends for its livelihood upon its industries. They are its basic source of employment and income. For every person on their immediate payroll, several other people—merchants, teachers, municipal officials and so on—are in turn supported.

Some idea of what a new plant means to a community is provided in a survey made by the Industrial Bureau of Atlanta, Ga. The Bureau estimates that a new industry employing 150 men requires and supports an average of 393 occupied homes; 33 retail stores; one-half million dollars in retail sales; 6,600 acres of additional farm produce; 24 additional professional men; 22 school rooms and 18 teachers; 320 cars (and services for them); 2½ million dollars in additional taxable valuation.

These figures speak for themselves.

SEARCH FOR EXPLORER CAIRN YIELDS MESSAGE

A faded century-old message left by a party searching in vain for Sir John Franklin's ill-fated expedition to find the northwest passage has been discovered by an Ottawa seismologist.

Peter Bremner, 24, made the historic discovery beneath a cairn of flat stones on the shore of Cornwallis Island, about 2,000 miles north of Winnipeg.

Returning to Ottawa after a 14-month tour of duty recording earthquakes at lonely Resolute Bay, Bremner said he was making his way back to the station after a 15-mile ski jaunt during the summer months when he came upon the cairn, a mile inland from the head of Assistance Bay.

Bremner reported later with Const. Ed Boone of the R.C.M.P., and flying officer H.C. Uthoff of the R.C.A.F. They pried open the outer lead-sealed canister and found a smaller can inside. In the inner can was a single sheet of yellow paper folded in a light cotton bag.

It contained this message, printed with an old hand press:

"H.M.S. Resolute, Assistance, Intrepid and Pioneer off Griffith Island.

The man who signed the document, Lt. Charles Gerrans Phillips, was Commander of the Felix, a 120-ton schooner outfitted by Sir Felix Scott, sheriff of London.

TURKEY MARKETING

With the turkey marketing season here again it is very important that birds be in prime condition if the highest grades and prices are to be obtained. F. J. Higginson, acting poultry commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture, reminds producers that birds ready for market should be in good healthy condition, well fleshed, and free from pin feathers. If a grower is to increase his profits, he should go through his flock regularly and select and dispose of all birds that are ready for market.

Turkeys put on weight rapidly up to twenty-four to twenty-six weeks of age, says Mr. Higginson. After that time the weekly gains decrease, so that every week birds are kept after they are ready for market the profit to the grower is reduced. When birds are kept after they have reached prime condition breast feathers often become brittle and break off close to the skin. This makes the feathers difficult to remove, and grade is lowered. A little extra time and effort with the turkey flock at this time will pay dividends.

Good cooks are proud of their favourite recipes. And when they find utensils that cook food well, preserve flavour and quality, and clean easily, they're proud of them, too. That's why so many homemakers write in to tell us about their aluminum utensils. Aluminum has been a Canadian kitchen favourite for half a century. So many mothers do more than teach their daughters to cook; they teach them to use good utensils, too!

Dear Sirs:

I have used aluminum wares in my home since aluminum was invented and would like to express a few words of appreciation. My son and his family and their children have used aluminum, in fact my grandson has just purchased some in preparation for his coming marriage.

We find our aluminum easy to cook with, easy to clean and that it is a great aid in retaining the vitamins and vitamins in our foods. I can readily recommend aluminum wares to any household, especially to the couples starting to keep house as they will get a lifetime of use and no upkeep costs.

Wishing you many years of success in the good work you are doing, I remain

Yours sincerely,

SOURCE OF ERGOT INFECTION

Ergot bodies bring about infection by germinating in the spring and sending up many slender stalks terminating in tiny heads about the size of mustard seeds on which tiny spores are produced and in due time discharged to infect the flowers of grains and grasses. A secondary source of infection is from the "honey dew" stage which develops in the heads of grain after they are infected. Spores are produced which are spread by washing down the head, by contact of heads as they wave in the wind, and by insects travelling from flower to flower. The ergot bodies provide the means by which the fungus lives through the winter and is carried from one crop to the next. They either fall to the ground before the grain is taken off or are threshed with the grain. If a field is sown with infested grain the field is virtually seeded down with the ergot organism. However, the ergot bodies will not cause infection unless they are at or near the surface of the soil. If plowed deep or seeded two or more inches below the surface they may germinate but are not likely to succeed in pushing through the soil and spreading infection to flowering grains and grasses.

Anything that prolongs the flowering period of the plants increases the chance of ergot development. This may happen in several ways: e.g. by broadcast seeding, with consequent uneven germination, or sowing thin.

Next week: Ergot Control Measures.

THE COARSE GRAINS

REFERENDUM

(By H.G.L. Strange)

On November 24th the farmers of Manitoba will vote on the following question: "Do you wish to sell your oats and barley as at present?" Yes or No. There has been considerable controversy about taking this referendum in Manitoba about the nature of the question. Because the matter affects the farmers of all the prairie provinces, some think that the farmers of all three provinces should have been permitted to vote. Others think that an additional question should be asked: "Do you favour the Open Market with a Voluntary Market Board?" But no one seems to know just what will happen if the vote to the present question is either Yes or No, for the Dominion Government itself does not seem to have made up its mind; even if it has considered the question.

Some think that if the vote is No then it will mean the end of State Compulsory Coarse Grains Marketing. In any event it seems quite fair to impose a marketing system, whatever it may be, on the farmers of Alberta and Saskatchewan when a vote is taken only of the farmers of Manitoba. All in all this referendum seems to be a waste of the taxpayers' money.

Then $1700 an ounce!

Ninety-three years ago, Queen's University, Kingston, gave a medal to its first graduate in chemistry. The medal was made of aluminum—which then cost $17.00 an ounce.

The price has been brought down by mass production in huge plants using the electrolytic process discovered twenty-eight years after the Queen's medal was presented.

By developing some of Canada's waterpower, previously running to waste, Alcan has succeeded in making this country the world's most efficient producer of aluminum, giving employment to many thousands of Canadians and through exports of "packaged power" aiding Canadians in acquiring the imports needed here. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

ELECTRIC DEHORNER
NEWEST AID

The newest thing in dehorning devices is an electric calf dehorner with automatic heat control, introduced by the Sunbeam Corporation. Automatic thermostat control keeps the temperature right all the time and reaches proper heat for dehorning a few minutes after it is plugged in according to its manufacturer's instructions.

High, controlled heat kills all horn cells around the base of the horn. No loss of blood no going off feed, no severe shock or other ill effects are claimed for the device. There is no open "live flesh" wound to invite screw worm attack.

CAR DEALERS OFF HOOK

New car dealers who have been going grey lately as inventories mounted and demand dropped, heaved a sigh of relief recently, states the financial Post.

The freezing of car styles as of 1952 means most dealers won't have to worry about carrying stocks of cars outdated by new models.

(Hugh McPhail)

HEAVY CROP RESIDUE

The following timely article is from the Experimental Farm at Lethbridge:

With the good moisture reserve in the soil, many farmers, next spring, will be considering seeding stubble land on which the crop was not worth harvesting this fall. The heavy crop residue from this year's good plant growth can be a nuisance during seeding operations and it will be felt that the crop residue is a liability instead of an asset.

The easiest way to dispose of the nuisance is burning it off in the spring, but burning will be a tremendous loss which will take years to replace, and may never be replaced. These are millions of small organisms (bacteria) in the moist surface soil ready to feed on and decompose this crop residue and convert it into a useable form for succeeding crops. If burned the residue will be largely lost to the succeeding crops. If this crop residue is worked into the surface soil bacteria will break it down.

Livestock pasturing on cropped land will utilize much of the crop aftermath and they also tramp much of it into the surface soil where the bacteria will break it down. If livestock are not available the one-way disc can be used this fall to cut and mix the crop residue with the surface soil. The soil bacteria will decompose much of the material this fall and next spring so that there will be less of it in the nuisance form at seeding time. There will also be enough crop residue left on the soil surface to form a trash cover for protection to the land against erosion until the seeding crop has become well established.

Next year could be a dry and windy year and every should be made to keep sufficient crop residue on or near the surface for cover protection. Don't burn it—save it to protect and fertilize your soil!

Christmas Seals were first sold to fight tuberculosis in Denmark in 1904. Last year 29 countries held Christmas Seal Sales as a means of raising money to help prevent tuberculosis.

WORLD POPULATION

The latest estimate of the human population of the world, as made by the United Nations World Health Organization, is 2,400 million.

The increase in the last 50 years is placed at 826 million people. The current increase is placed at 60,000 a day.

In a newly published book entitled

"The population of India and Pakistan", by Kingsley Davis, the joint population of the two countries is estimated at 420 million.

Mr. Davis, who is director of the bureau of applied social research at Columbia University, says that if the present population increase in India and Pakistan is continued, by the year 2005 it will reach 840 million.

DO CANADIANS KNOW CANADA?

"You Canadians don't know what's happening in your country," a visiting Texan told Jack Oberholzer, Alberta's deputy minister of Industries and Labour recently.

Blair Fraser, Maclean's Ottawa Editor, writing in the current issue of the magazine, agrees with him in an article entitled "The Boom That Ran Away From Home."

"Eastern Canadians certainly do not," writes Fraser in support of the candid Texan's statement that Canadians don't know what's going on since Imperial Oil's Leduc discovery set the Alberta boom rolling five years in which the oil industry alone has poured seven hundred and fifty million dollars into western Canada, five years that have established the Canadian prairies as a major oil field of the world. Toward these developments the financial powers of eastern Canada have maintained a calm that resembles paralysis. Control of Alberta's natural resources, and the profits thereof, have very largely passed into American hands.

"Alberta has oil, coal and natural gas the ingredients of a chemical industry. A year ago an American firm sent out a group of its top men from New York to look the situation over. They stayed a few weeks, went back to New York, three months later announced plans for a new chemical plant that will cost at least fifty million dollars and may run to one hundred million if contemplated expansion is carried out.

"Long before that a Montreal firm had sent out two technical men to make a careful survey. They spent six months in the field, then went back east and spent six months writing an exhaustive report. Their principals in Montreal have been studying the report for a couple of years. They may eventually decide to build a chemical plant in Alberta, but so far they are still trying to make up their minds.

NATIONAL HEALTH MINISTER ENDORSES SEAL SALE

"During the past few years Canadians have been in the happy position of being able to observe a tremendous decrease in the number of lives lost to tuberculosis, a disease once commonly referred to as the 'white plague'. What was 10 years ago a leading killer has become a lesser scourge owing, in great part, to increased facilities for diagnosis and to improved diagnostic equipment, particularly mass X-rays. To the voluntary tuberculosis associations goes much of the glory for this winning fight over an age-old enemy. Since the work of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, and of the other Provincial associations, depends so largely for its success upon the proceeds from the sale of Christmas Seals, I consider it a privilege to heartily endorse your association's annual appeal for funds. Every citizen who buys Christmas Seals is purchasing an investment in better health for all."

Christmas Seals have been mailed to some 250,000 homes in Alberta during the past week, and the Association is hoping to receive at least 100,000 contributions averaging $1.85. Since many of the usual contributions amount to $1.00 or less, it will be necessary for a great many Albertans to give well over that amount in order to reach the provincial objective of $185,000. Christmas Seal funds are spent on preventive services, health education, occupational therapy, rehabilitation, nursing and welfare services. Tuberculosis is gradually being reduced as a cause of death but the incidence of the disease remains high. In Alberta there are at least 1,200 patients under treatment and there are probably another 1,000 unknown cases.

WEDDINGS

DICKAU — ERB

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Dickau at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday, November 10th, when Irene Carlyle, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Erb, became the bride of Mr. Kenneth Leslie Dickau, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Dickau of Didsbury. Rev. C.C. Armstrong performed the ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. H.W. Erb and Calgary, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a suit of steel blue and a corsage of red roses. Attending the bride was the groom's sister, Miss Marion Dickau, who wore a light brown suit and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Harold Dickau was best man. During the signing of the register the pianist played "I Love You Truly."

The ceremony a reception for twenty guests was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mrs. Joe Fulkerth, the groom's aunt, prior to the tea and the ice. After the reception the happy couple left for Calgary for a short honeymoon.

STRAND—CARLSON

On the afternoon of November 8, the Seventh Day Advent Church in Oids was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Neva Victoria, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Carlson of Harman formerly of Cremona, exchanged marriage vows in a double ring ceremony with Mr. Robert Samuel Strand, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Strand of Harman.

The bride was very charming in a floor-length gown of white moire fashioned on princess lines. She wore a chapel veil and carried a bouquet of red roses on a white ribbon.

Miss Beja Thompson, cousin of the bride, made a very charming flower girl in a floor-length dress of yellow moire.

Ushering the guests were Leon Carlson and Donald Dodd.

Rev. Wm. Barber performed the ceremony, and Mrs. Barber played the wedding music.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a wine colored dress and a corsage of lily of the valley. The groom's mother also wore a corsage of lily of the valley on a blue dress.

A reception for fifty-five guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table was set with a three-tiered wedding cake, and Rev. Barber proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

After a short honeymoon the happy couple will make their home at Harman.

New License Plate System For Alberta

The provincial government has decided to abandon the system which has been in operation since the present license system was inaugurated of changing the number plates on motor cars every year, according to information received by the officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Instead there will be a permanent license plate which will first come into use when the next license year opens April 1, 1952. Thus, Alberta is adopting a system that has been in effect in some states for many years and which also is being considered by some other western provinces.

The new license plates will have pearl grey letters on a black background which is a combination designed to make them easily recognized.

Another change is that the lettering will stand out as a chemical paint will be used to make them glow in a reflecting light. Experiments elsewhere on this set-up have given good results.

The provincial secretary's department also has decided on another change, which will result in a combination of letters and numbers, instead of the present plates which show only numbers.

Don't Bank on Chance

Every time a motorist neglects an unsafe condition in his car he is making a deposit with death . . . And, the final accounting may come sooner than he expects. Saving money is a good habit—but saving a life, perhaps your own or a member of your family, is much more important. Regular checking of tires, windshield wiper, defroster, brakes and lights can be a life-saving investment.
